

JHOLIE[®]
LONDON

Through my life I have crossed paths with so many amazing women. Women who have courage, imagination and strength, who made life work for them. My Grandmother, Mother and Sister are each in their own right the embodiment of extraordinary. I try to emulate their talents and live my life as they do theirs.

One of my earliest memories was watching my mother dress for ballet class. I counted each time she wrapped the belt around her tiny waist and then I would carefully help tie the ends securely in place.

This memory along with their influence of strength to achieve success is the inspiration behind my vision for creating The Ballerina Collection and JHOLIE London. It felt natural and so instinctive; create clothing women feel confident and beautiful in, for all shapes and sizes.

I can't thank you all enough for giving me the encouragement to live out my passion and for believing in my brand.
